[illegible] prosecuted [illegible] are [illegible] the strongest reasons [illegible] keep [illegible] on the statute book

[illegible] experience [illegible] the war has [illegible] some [illegible] and many [illegible] Especially [illegible] but a President [illegible] be [illegible] patronage which we thought meant [illegible]

[illegible] Hence the war has shown us that for critical emergencies we have no Constitution The long list of precedents in this line beginning with Jefferson's purchase of Louisiana and closing with Kansas gets its climax in our war experience of Presidents We will not now say that here are grave reasons for the abolition of the office But we may say that all the curbs which grave public disgust with Johnson has enabled us to put on the Presidency should be retained as valuable checks which removed may never be possible again It is not often that we have a Congress largely opposed to the Executive It is rarer still to have an Executive of such unabashed and shameless corruption as to call forth a national rebuke emphatic enough to embolden Congress to go to the very extreme verge of its power for checking him These two rare circumstances have combined the last four years to give us an immense gain in the direction of crippling Executive patronage The statute book as it stands now will enable an honest Congress to make future Johnsons and [illegible] Fessenden's [illegible] The sentimental mush of magnanimity has largely demoralized the national conscience There is an instinctive sense of justice in the commonest nature which repudiates as immoral the policy that leaves Forrest and Davis at liberty on this continent The man who has schooled himself into approving it has demoralized himself Greeley and Beecher have done good things in years past But all they have done has never lifted the nation so much as their childish and immortal prattle about magnanimity has sunk it in moral sensibility and [illegible] The war has educated the masses in justice How much the escape of Johnson has corrupted political life time will show Congress is nearer to popular impression and control There[illegible] all the legislative has conquered from the Executive during this epoch is to be jealously kept No need to fear that we shall curb the President too much A power which could secure the confirmation of Rousseau and Reverdy Johnson has certainly strength enough To know from what a regiment of rogues this law has saved us ask the police list and whisky ring The tendency of all free States is to depress the Executive and enlarge the authority of the legislative element Progress in this direction seems almost synonymous with growth in liberty The Civil Office Tenure Act is a large stride Let it be carefully kept and let us press farther on in that line It takes the whole summer of our national existence

Agricultural Items

The Commissioner of Agriculture says the aggregate loss of farm animals of all kinds in the country for the past twelve months could not be replaced for fifty million dollars

An old farmer informs the New Eng and Farmer that, after an experience of forty years he finds no food so good to keep cattle in heart and especially for cows and sheep when coming in, as scalded oats He says that the calves and lambs will be healthy and active, and that his loss of lambs is of rare occurrence

Mr Salmon D Case of Canton Conn , has thirty four hens which layed 4 176 eggs and raised forty chickens from January 1 1868 to September 26 1868 The eggs have brought in the market $121 90 His hens are a mixture of Bramahs white Leghorn and black Spanish He has one venerable lady hen fourteen years old that has continued to lay every season but has never attempted to set

I received a new idea from Mr Locke says a correspondent of the New Eng and Farmer in regard to smoking hams Let the hams remain frozen and wrapped in papers through the cold weather In the spring smoke your barrel by gradually burning under it when inverted a bushel of cobs then rinse the barrel with warm water that is to be used in making the brine For one hundred pounds of meat use ten pounds of salt two quarts molasses, two ounces saltpetre with water enough to cover the meat Scald the brine skim it and put it with the hams packed in the smoked barrel Treated in this way the hams have the taste of smoked meat without smoking and will keep like other salt meat through the summer

In the correspondence of the Ohio Farmer occurs the following I have had twenty five cows to milk and found timothy and wild grass the best To feed in winter use shorts ground oats shorts and corn meal shorts make more milk than clear meal oats ground do better than either but corn meal with shorts makes richer milk but no more of it I have fed potatoes largely they do tolerably well but milk a day or two old gets strong Rutabaga turnips and carrots would not do for me to make butter from the milk but of all the roots I ever tried, sugar beet is the best I heard pumpkins were good to make milk and tried them I had twelve milkers I divided them fed six with pumpkins three weeks and all run on grass alike Those that had pumpkins gave not a gill more milk than the [illegible] but I believe [illegible] was a [illegible]

The Suez Canal

From the Philadelphia Ledger

[illegible] the commerce [illegible] the century It is easy [illegible] the projectors of the Suez [illegible] the real [illegible] [illegible] the Mediterranean [illegible] when we forget how the commerce was [illegible] when he [illegible] opened to [illegible] the treasure houses of India [illegible] and then England— [illegible] reaped golden harvests [illegible] simply undoes for Western Europe [illegible] the old channel must benefit France The Italian cities not only sank in importance when they lost their rich trade but they cannot under existing circumstances rise to the dignity of even a fair competition with those of France

But in weighing the consequence of so grand an enterprise the more selfish motives of projectors should be left out of the question

[illegible] at least without the hope of a personal or national gain there would neither be projects nor projectors

Abstractly speaking the Suez Canal is a work well worthy the genius of the century In its completion we shall find a strange counter revolution in force of will and application of dynamical laws More than two thousand years ago at least two attempts were made to cut the Suez Isthmus Why they failed we know not but their failure is remarkable As conceptions they were worthy the mind whence sprang the Pyramids Engineering skill could not have been absent for the Pyramids were completed neither could tenacity of purpose have been wanting for the Pyramids are as much monuments of patience as of ingenuity We may well doubt whether modern science is adequate to the completion of a task such as they entailed Yet it has taken up the unfinished work of Egypt's kings and made of it a monument as grand as those stately piles of the desert Why antiquity could not build a canal is a problem which will be solved when it is shown why the present cannot build a pyramid

The mammoth proportions of the canal now in progress may be inferred from the immense cost of construction It is supposed that 400 000 000 francs will complete it or about $80 000 000, a sum much larger than what will be required to build and stock our trans continental railroads

There has been but little flagging since the inception of the work as the company started with a capital stock of 200 000 000 francs and received indemnity and payments from the Egyptian government equal to 100 000 000 more A loan of 100 000 000 was deemed necessary to fill the estimate of expenses

The charter of the company is comparatively liberal and allows the opening of the canal to the transit of vessels of all nations subject, however to the rules of the company

To show how, in matters of commerce, the best calculators are at fault when the company was formed in 1858 the maximum estimate of tonnage per annum was 3 000 000, and a charge of ten francs per ton was formally agreed upon, thus netting a revenue of 30 000 000 francs, or double as much as would be required to pay the interest at five per cent upon 300,000 000 francs, the interest bearing expenditure But to-day, from the best data afforded by all the circumstances, this estimate is regarded as more than half too low The completed portion has already given a flattering impetus to trade, and large amounts of merchandise pass from sea to sea [illegible] by way of the maritime canal to [illegible] and thence to Suez by means of the old fresh water canal

Our word canal conveys but a limited idea of this gigantic water passage Says the President of the company Ferd de Lesseps It will be about 100 metres in breadth at the top, 22 at the bottom and 8 in depth " We are called upon then to imagine an immense river connecting the two seas 328 feet in width at the surface 72 feet at the bottom and 26 feet in average depth

The success which is about to crown this effort affords encouragement to the projectors of a similar work across the Isthmus of Panama The difficulties whether climatic or topographical, are not greater Many of the routes proposed are shorter and in nearly all of them [illegible] may find herself assisted by natural water courses

Many persons imagine that the completion of the Suez Canal will seriously interfere with the trade of the Pacific Railroad While we cannot doubt that classes of the East India trade and perhaps a modicum of that from China and Japan will prefer to seek the Mediterranean through the Red Sea and the Canal the great bulk of Eastern commerce must find its way across this continent Time is as much an element in commerce as profit and by the middle of next summer the energy and liberality of American capitalists aided by a general Government will have placed Liverpool within thirty five days of Japan Putting as the continuous water line via Suez may appear, at least sixty days will be required to make the trip between the above points If we add to this the general desire to avoid trade courses through tropical countries and the difficulties and dangers of Red Sea navigation, there is surely nothing in the future to create distrust concerning the effect [illegible] of the great American enterprise

The world cannot be too commercial The millennium will not dawn until all nations and kindreds and tongues are brought together upon a common basis of fellowship Every Pacific railroad every Suez canal is but a link in the chain of the world's friendship What will make Egypt again a land of corn and letters cannot impoverish us on the contrary it will serve to enrich and liberalize for inasmuch as the price is great it will hold out half a score of railroads across the continent and always serve to shear down the edges of monopoly

Senator Sprague at a dinner party in Charleston S C recently said some things which appeared to have pleased and instructed his listeners He said that it would surprise the people of the South and still more surprise the people of the North to know—what is a fact—that the best cotton factory of its size and kind in America is to be found in the city of Augusta Georgia and that in looking at the subject in a manufacturer's point of view taking the productions per hand and per spindle and comparing them with the work in other mills running on the same class of goods he found that these Southern [illegible] were equal to any of their kind in [illegible] Northern markets Senator Sprague went on to say that "you meaning [illegible] Southern people can do what we [illegible] the people of New England, cannot [illegible] With your great advantages you can compete with England for her Indian yarn trade You ought to spin a large part of your [illegible] instead of shipping the raw material

PRISON STATISTICS —According to a statistical table prepared by Drs Wines and Dwight of New York it appears that all the States excepting Delaware West Virginia North Carolina [illegible] and Nebraska each have one State prison Pennsylvania [illegible] two New York three Nebraska North Carolina and West Virginia are [illegible] The average number [illegible] of the five largest [illegible] New York Pennsylvania Ohio Illinois [illegible] New England and as contrasted with [illegible] presents a creditable list In all New England the average number of convicts was less than 1 [illegible] while in California the number reached [illegible]

SOUTHERN TRADE —Our merchants anticipate [illegible] a great revival of Southern trade at the opening of the Spring season The Southern States are now pretty well shorn of dry goods and in various localities there is a pressing need of the common articles of wearing apparel [illegible] and we may expect ere long to witness Southern buyers crowding our markets [illegible]

[illegible] GENERAL GRANT AND [illegible] THE CONGRESSIONAL PLAN OF RECONSTRUCTION

The following is the full text of the second letter of Gen Longstreet mention of which was made by telegraph

LYNCHBURG VA Nov 24.

MY DEAR SIR Many of our Southern men seem to have lost sight of the fundamental doctrine—the interest of the people—in their zeal to maintain their ideas of consistency which consists in adhering to old truths whether they work for weal or for woe I regret that I am not better prepared to meet your wishes for information in regard to the future policy of our new President Although I have had the pleasure of several interviews with him within the last few years I have not sought to learn his appreciation of political questions of the present or of the future I regard his past course and decided character as the surest guarantees of his future course. The floating idea that has attached itself to the minds of the many that he may yet prove to be a Democrat is like many other speculations that gain circulation and credence but only serve to deceive those who are credulous enough to indulge them If we recall to mind the events of the last two years we shall remember that General Grant's position at that time was such as to insure his nomination for President by the party that he might choose as most in accord with his views of public policy, and subsequent events indicate that his personal popularity is such as to have turned the balance in his favor It seems to me unreasonable therefore to expect to find him at this late day, forming alliance with the old party. His antecedents clearly mark him as a national man and as such he gives assurance of his adhesion to the party whose basis is the Union and that the influence of his administration will be applied to its complete and prosperous restoration A fair minded people must know however, that no individual unaided can accomplish this great purpose He must needs have the assistance of the North of the South of the East and of the West Having assurances of co-operation from other parts of the country he only wants that of the South to complete the combination which will give to his administration a happy advent and comfortable anticipations of its salutary progress. That the people of the South desire practical reconstruction there can be no doubt, but it seems to be difficult to develop that sentiment so as to produce practical results Drifting along in the channel into which chance seems to have thrown me I begin to find myself like many others, ready with my theory As it may interest you, I give you a concise statement of it If you find you can make it useful, you are at liberty to do so. The wealth of the South lies in its soil. If this proposition is true its sequents are equally so 1 Labor is essential to make that wealth available 2 To command labor laws must encourage and protect it Also, their consequents To encourage and invite labor evidences of protection must be made manifest through the operation of law upon labor that we have Hence, it appears that the value of our lands depends upon our labor, our labor upon the law, and the law upon us. A failure upon our part therefore to enact and enforce proper laws, will be as fatal to the [illegible] of the owners of real estate as confiscation And yet all that Congress asks us to do is to avail ourselves of the only means by which we may avoid [illegible] depreciation of our material interests. That is, this will be the practical result of reconstruction, under national legislation upon our interests. The moving cause of that legislation, [illegible] was " security for the future " Here we may discover the line that should mark our [illegible] with reconstruction It begins and ends in our care for home interests It will be time enough to begin to look into the future when we have provided for the present The politicians of the old school seem anxious to impress upon the minds of our young men the importance of rejecting all propositions coming from the [illegible] party, or else they dishonor their own [illegible] and the blood of their fallen comrades. But [illegible] men should remember that they only dishonor their comrades when they dishonor [illegible] and that there cannot be dishonor in ready obedience to law and a proper care for our own welfare On the contrary to disregard the law and expose ourselves to unnecessary difficulties, is near akin to dishonor It is true that many worthy persons are disfranchised under the law, but the readiest and surest means of relief are through the law I conclude, therefore, that interest, and duty, and honor demand that we should place ourselves in a condition to support the laws of Congress When we have done so, we [illegible] abundantly of help from the Executive, and from the other members of the Government. I remain, very truly yours

JAMES LONGSTREET

Mr JOHN H DENT, Cave Spring Ga.

The disposition of the people of Maryland to honor the lost cause is continually showing itself and they seem to have hope that when the new Governor takes his seat in January, men who did all in their power to overthrow the government will be rewarded with places of honor, trust and profit The last demonstration of this sort is the recommendation of the Marlboro Gazette and other papers in the State, of one Maj Contee for the position of Adjutant General on Gov Bowie's staff The papers refer [illegible] to Contee's claim on the ground that he [illegible] fully during the war as Adjutant General on the staff of the rebel General Elzey

THE BEST EVIDENCE OF THE VALUE OF AN [illegible] may be found in the fact of its having numerous imitators. Every fine poem has its parodies every meritorious literary work is subject to plagiarisms, every successful play has been burlesqued every [illegible] man has his detractors every genuine dollar has been counterfeited and every valuable medicinal preparation has its vile imitations The proprietors of have encountered the usual experience in this respect. So [illegible] has been the success of this sterling preparation, that all inferior articles of the kind have virtually been driven from the market The concoctors of these beverages finding that this new Tonic has exactly met the public want, and that no further demand exists for inferior preparations, have resorted to the dishonest expedient of imitating either the name or the style of label both of which have been duly secured by the laws of the State to the proprietors of the I X L Bitters

The Art of Pocket Picking

The late Mr De Quincey says the New York Tribune wrote a curious and elaborate paper on Murder considered as one of the Fine Arts. Had he lived half a century later he might have extended his jurisprudence as to include pocket picking in that category, for an art it has certainly become. Your artistic pick pocket is a gentlemanly looking fellow, wears neat boots and gloves, always has a new looking hat, and is altogether the last man you would suspect of any sinister designs on your pockets. He lives in the first class hotels and boarding houses, often frequenting the same house for years, totally unsuspected and remarkable only for his quiet and gentlemanly demeanor. He carefully chooses four companions equally respectable in appearance to form what is called a mob, each one producing a certain sum to form a bank to be used in case one of them fails, taken by the police, in order to provide bail or pay his counsel fees. They then frequent railway stations, public meetings, or any place where they can find a crowd. A victim is quietly selected as a profitable fiend. Two of the mob then place themselves in front of him and two remain behind, occupying as it were the angles of a square, of which the victim is the center. These are called the front and back stalls. The unfortunate victim is then fanned, that is his pockets are softly padded to find out the one in which he keeps his wallet; the sign is passed to the operator, who is termed the wire, who immediately proceeds to work. He does not place his hand in the pocket, that is a fatal error, but with the two first fingers he gently draws up the lining of the pocket to the opening, and with it the wallet, and the trick is done. The system is called reefing. The wallet is quickly passed to one of the back stalls, who quietly, though quickly, levants.

The most dangerous place for money is undoubtedly the pocket of the pants. Again one of the front stalls passes his arm before your face to touch the other front stall on the shoulder, only to say, "How are you?" but the wire from behind has your diamond pin in his possession. If possible then return the empty wallet to the pocket to avoid detection in its possession, or the dangerous necessity of throwing it away. For instance two gentlemen sitting at one end of a car get into angry altercation, high words ensue, the attention of the other passengers is attracted to their dispute, and the young lady who sat next to that nice looking man at the other end of the car finds, on arriving at Stewart's, that her purse is empty. The angry gentleman and the nice looking man are simply confederates. This they term weeding. A correspondent of a newspaper lately lost $800 in this way while riding in a Fourth avenue car.

Pick-pockets are necessarily very migratory in their habits, finding a long residence in one place inconvenient. This renders it difficult to make any estimate of their probable numbers in New York. They prefer a locality for the scene of their operations that has a number of lines of rail to enable them to separate in various directions as soon as they have a haul, and to meet again in some other town. They stand by one another in trouble, and are strictly square in their mutual transactions. A curious instance of "honor among thieves" is found in the following anecdote. The elder Matthews and Theodore Hook on one occasion went together to the theatre, while ascending the staircase Matthews playfully took a bundle of papers from Hook's pocket, when he was touched from the shoulder from behind by a gentlemanly looking man, who handed him his own pocket book, apologizing for taking it by saying, "I didn't know you were one of us," and [illegible] adding, "but what a fool you must be to carry it there." Pick pockets, however, never save money, for they are all bitten with a mania for gambling, and strange to say, are generally unsuccessful at it. Their language is [illegible] peculiar, only to be understood by themselves. Their depredations on the public amount to a very large sum in the course of the year, a considerable portion of which is never recovered, from the general inability of the victims to give any description that might lead to identification, they never, if possible, allowing you to have a full view of their face.

The London Times calls upon Congress, in [illegible], if the United States means to pay the debt in gold, to say as much in plain language. It argues with great force that if [illegible] were given to the world in a [illegible] worthy shape, the burden [illegible] upon this country would be lightened one-half, as England, with a debt twice as large, is not paying any more interest than we are. It is [illegible], it has never been really doubtful, that we are going to be honest. What [illegible] is there then for [illegible] foreign capitalists as to our intentions?

In [illegible], as in skating, he who hesitates is lost. The secret of safety is equilibrium, and that, at first, is only to be gained by boldness and [illegible]. Let those who intend gaining the new [illegible] recall the backfalls and starry visions of their first skating days and remembering when they first found safety in audacity, apply the [illegible] rule to this velocipedal exercise.

NOTES

Proposals must be to carry the mail with celerity, certainty and security, using the terms of the law, and they must be guaranteed by two responsible persons certified to as such by a postmaster or judge of a court of record.

No pay will be made for trips not performed, and for each of such omissions not satisfactorily explained three times the pay of the trip may be deducted. For arrivals so far behind time as to break connection with depending mails and not sufficiently excused one fourth of the compensation for the trip is subject to forfeiture. Fines will be imposed unless the delinquency be satisfactorily explained for neglecting to take the mail from or into a postoffice, for suffering it to be injured, destroyed or lost; and for refusing after demand to convey the mail as frequently as the contractor runs or is concerned in running vehicles on the route. The postmaster general may annul the contract for disobeying the post office laws or the instructions of the Department. He may alter the schedule of departures and arrivals and also order an increase of service by allowing therefor a pro rata increase on the contract pay. He may also curtail or discontinue the service in whole or in part [illegible] of pay [illegible] of service dispensed with [illegible] the Second Assistant Postmaster General, as per prescribed. Proposals State of Oregon [illegible] by mail.

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

Weekly Oregonian.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest. It is the oldest paper in the State, and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined. As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor. It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories, where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing.

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles, it at the same time pays [illegible] attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST, but to every thing of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing,

AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the [illegible] and [illegible] of the Northwest.

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS

OF

Oregon, Washington, Idaho and [illegible],

TELEGRAMS FROM

are published as full as in the California [illegible], and put before our readers from ONE TO THREE DAYS BEFORE ANY OTHER PAPER IN THE STATE.

Among its corps of writers are regular [illegible] at New York and Washington City, men who, having lived in this State, are able to write on [illegible] affairs, both politically and [illegible] from an Oregon standpoint.

Its Literary and [illegible] are from the best sources

SELECTED AND [illegible]

are furnished every week, giving the [illegible], Dry Goods, Hardware, and General Market Reports of Portland, and the latest reports by Telegraph of the San Francisco and New York markets. These [illegible] are acknowledged to be the most [illegible] published in the State.

In every department it will be, as it has been, the foremost in the State in the field of journalism [illegible] established. It will go forward with [illegible], making new plans for improvement and usefulness, and [illegible] to gain increased circulation and support.

TERMS:

One Year	$3 00.
Six Months	2 00.
Three Months.	1 00.

The WEEKLY OREGONIAN has been a favorite paper for mailing to friends in the East. It will be [illegible] from the office at subscription rates.

Subscribers will find on each paper, with their names, the date on which their subscription expires, as entered on our books. In renewing, the name of subscriber and post office should be distinctly written.

All papers are discontinued at the end of the time for which they have been paid, the date of which is always printed with the name each week.

REMIT BY MAIL AT OUR RISK in presence of Postmaster or pay to the nearest authorized agent.

We ask our friends to aid us in extending the circulation of the OREGONIAN in every direction.

Gerrymandering

One of the objects which the Democrats have in urging an extra session is to gerrymander the State so as to secure the next Legislature. Almost every person knows the meaning of the word "gerrymander," though few, perhaps, are aware of the circumstances of its origin. Massachusetts has given us the word, along with many other things good and bad. When Elbridge Gerry was Governor of that State in the year 1811, the Democrats who ruled the Commonwealth sought, with his connivance and assistance, to perpetuate their power by such a distribution or arrangement of the districts as would put the votes of their opponents at the greatest disadvantage. For example, all the strong Federal towns that could be grouped together were thrown into districts with overwhelming Federal majorities, and the excess was, of of course, lost. From the zeal with which this design was prosecuted some very strangely shaped districts were formed, and the Federalists called the process "gerrymandering," from the name of its author. In this way a very useful and significant word was introduced in our vocabulary, and it seems likely to hold a permanent place. In other States the same thing has often been tried. The State of Illinois, which up to 1858 remained under Democratic rule, was so districted or gerrymandered that the Legislature elected in that year had a considerable Democratic majority, though the Republicans had several thousand majority on the popular vote. In this way Douglas beat Lincoln for Senator. The Democrats of Oregon State feel certain that they can carry the Legislature in 1870 if they can only get an opportunity to gerrymander; and there is no doubt but this is the principal reason why they are so anxious for a special session.

Cash for Honor.

Many Eastern journals are averse to our receiving satisfaction in money for the depredations of the rebel-English pirates upon our commerce during the late rebellion. They hold that our Government should not accept cash for the outrage upon its honor, but rather allow the claim to stand and in due time, when opportunity offers, pay England off in her own coin. The Pittsburg Gazette puts the matter in this way: "No Administration can ever hope to close these difficult negotiations on the basis which has heretofore been offered. If the proposition it to be put in that shape, we would thank the ingenious statesman who can point to any good reason why, of the respective claims for compensation by each party, either should be evolved from an equitable adjustment. It is true that what we recognize as the Alabama claims enlist in their favor all our national pride, and seem to involve the honor of our national sovereignty. Those claims originated in an active foreign sympathy with our domestic [illegible], which was terribly galling to American sentiment. But, from the moment that we have decided to be content with a compensation in money therefor, all the loftier public considerations which lay beyond must be [illegible]. We are content that our wounded honor and ravaged commerce shall be alike [illegible] and made whole with so much hard cash." But the latest report as to a settlement indicates that its basis will be the original proposition made by our Government, that is to say, the liquidation of our claims with the concession on the part of England that her course was not sanctioned by the law of nations.

HIGH-TONED ASSOCIATION.—The laboring loafers of Oregon City whose constitutional indisposition to work has led them to form a society in which to discuss the momentous question of how to live without labor, have passed a resolution declaring that the OREGONIAN is their enemy. Good! The OREGONIAN is the enemy of all shams and humbugs. It is under no obligation to treat with respect any class of men who, instead of going to work as men should do, commence throwing stones at a Chinaman or negro, and whine and cant because they are afraid the "inferior races" will become their superiors. The Association of Laboring Loafers declare that the course we have pursued is "false, base and truculent." They deem it "false" to maintain that the employer has a right to pay such wages as he may see fit and that the laborer has a corresponding right to get the highest wages he can; they think it "base" to treat any principle of common sense as to the relations of capital and labor, and hold that it is "truculent" to insist that any person of "inferior race" has a right to work for a living. On their principles the Chinese might also quit work, form themselves into associations, and try to make a living by spouting in the style pursued by the Laboring Loafers. But the Chinese have more [illegible]. The result is that they will make money, while the Association of Laboring Loafers will squander their time in talking nonsense, and at the end of the year be poorer than at the beginning. The Association will soon discover that the dignity which they assert as members of the "superior race" is not capital enough to live on. Something else will soon be required.

The South American War.

The outrages which were recently perpetrated upon the American Legation in Paraguay by the Dictator Lopez have drawn the attention of our people, to a considerable extent, to the condition of things in that country. The end of the difficulty between our Government and Lopez is not yet reached. The war still goes on between the allied forces of Brazil, Uraguay and the Argentine Republic on one side, and Paraguay on the other. General Webb, our Minister at Rio, says Lopez commenced the war without provocation. An Eastern paper says:

> Whether this be true or not, the manner in which the Brazillians, Uruguayans, and the Argentine Republic have conducted the war displays the utmost inefficiency. They have not produced a general able to cope with the Dictator. Already Brazil has lost sixty thousand men in the struggle, the greater portion by disease. Upon every occasion where the respective forces encountered each other, the Allies have met with reverses. The people of Brazil, Uruguay and the Argentine Republic demand peace. They perceive that at the rate the allied forces have been crumbling away before the blows of the Dictator, they will presently experience no little inconvenience in obtaining laborers. The losses of the last two years give rise to considerable discontent. In the meantime, Lopez either keeps the allied forces at bay, or administers a terrible lesson to them when they attack him in his strongholds. If the worst should come to the worst, and the allied forces succeed in outflanking him, he can retire to the mountain fastnesses, whence it will be impossible to dislodge him.

ROADS.—There is much good philosophy in the following, which we find in an agricultural paper, and which we commend to the consideration of Oregon readers. "What an American invests in horses and mules an Englishman invests in good roads, and the latter investment, in the long run, is the better. An American horse expends his life in dragging loads through holes and up mountain grades. His efficiency, and consequently his value is reduced one-half to his owner. Permanent and perfect roads in any section would more than double the value of the resident horseflesh. A mile of good macadamized road is more easily kept in order than a horse—so, at least, calculates a careful writer on the small economies of life, and the inference is patent. Owners of good horses should be the last to complain of road tax. Under the present system of our roads their horses are overworked, and sooner or later crippled. Beyond this immediate question arises the future one of the desirability of a permanent investment—roads, to a perishable one—stock."

BOWLES AND FISK.—Bowles is still sharp after Fisk, as the following from the Springfield Republican of the 3d inst. shows: "We don't intend to 'devote' the Republican to Mr. Jim Fisk permanently; and Congress is not in session; murders are dull, and there is hardly any livelier reading going just now than that he has provoked. But we must give up copying the expressions of public opinion through the press from sheer despair of doing justice to them all. Besides, they are all on one side, with not difference enough except in degree and variety of objurgation of the poor Fisk, to keep up the interest. The fecundity of the English language in words of denunciation and dunning was never so powerfully illustrated as in the treatment of this case."

THE STOCK OF GOLD.—Senator Morton estimates the present stock of gold in the country at not less than $500,000,000. Indeed, he thought it, in fact, might be $672,000,000. The Commercial and Financial Chronicle, (very high authority, by-the-bye) regards the Senator's estimate as extravagantly erroneous, and presents the data which show the present stock of coin in the Atlantic States to be not over $160,000,000. Adding to the stock of 1861, ($165,000,000) the amount produced from our own mines since, ($[illegible]), and the importations ($141,000,000) we have a total of $791,000,000, of which $563,000,000 have been exported during that period, and some $70,000,000 more has been used up in jewelry and plate.

STATE ITEMS.

M. B. Hendricks will build a steam flouring mill at Wheatland, Yamhill county.

There is good sleighing in Union county. The Summerville people are having a joyful time on "runners."

The town of La Grande has its Common Council, and assumes the airs of a city. No place has a better right.

H. H. Gale retires from his connection with the Roseburg Ensign. The paper is on a firm financial basis, and will be continued.

The La Grande paper says that Geo. Coggan of that town, has commenced to rebuild his large stable that was burned down a short time ago.

The Jacksonville Sentinel says: All business has been suspended at Ashland and Phœnix, the people of those places being seriously alarmed at the close proximity of small pox.

A Southern Oregon paper reports that the miners in Josephine county are all busy. Water is plenty, much rain having fallen there, and the streams are generally much swollen.

The following is a list of those who have died of small pox at Jacksonville: John Walker, Joseph Martin, John Martin, James Hubbard, Betty [illegible], Mrs. Brewer, Sophia Love, Ed. Pitts, John Atkinson, Isaac Cowan (colored) and three squaws.

The Roseburg paper says: We are informed by Dr. Plu[illegible], who was present, that the council of physicians upon Mr. Abrahams' case, decided against a re-amputation of the leg, and in favor of a removal of a portion of two nerves and a sub-cutaneous division of a tendon, which was performed, affording instant mitigation of the patient's sufferings. The consultation was held by several medical men, among whom were Prof. Carpenter, of Salem, and Grube, of Jacksonville. Mr. Abraham is said to be doing well.

OUR SAN FRANCISCO DISPATCH.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—James O Breaker, proprietor of the Cosmopolitan or Grant and Colfax saloon, on Merchant street, which was recently destroyed by fire, committed suicide at Redwood City Monday night, by shooting himself through the left breast with a shotgun. He had been drinking heavily since the loss of his property and it is supposed that he was laboring under an attack of delirium tremens.

A woman named Minerva Foot, alias Courtie, was found dead in her bed at a house on Stockton street, yesterday. It is supposed she committed suicide.

The body of an Indian named Sl[illegible]finica was found in the bay to-day. He had been missing since last Sunday and there are suspicions of foul play in the matter of his death.

A desperate row occurred among the Chinamen last night on the arrival of the steamer Japan. She brought 250 China women and the representatives of the different companies quarreled about their disposition. Knives, cleavers, iron bar, &c. were drawn but the police stopped further demonstrations.

H. H. Shed, defaulting clerk of Wells, Fargo & Co., was convicted of petit larceny to-day, and will be tried on the charge of grand larceny tomorrow.

The White Pine Water Company was incorporated to furnish fresh water to the district of White Pine. Capital stock, $1,000,000. Trustees, VonSchmidt, Stanford, Ralston, Hayward and Bell.

The steamer New World commenced running on the Vallejo route to-day, connecting with the California Pacific Railroad for Sacramento. Two trips, daily, will hereafter be made between this city and Sacramento via Vallejo.

FROM THE NORTH.

VICTORIA, Jan 21.—The Wallace coal mine at Nanaimo near the Northern extremity of the Island are being rapidly opened. A tunnel has been driven into the side and the coal is said to be equal to any yet discovered on the Island.

The boat in which the three missing men left Nanaimo on New Year's day for Burrard Inlet, has been found bottom up at Cape Mudge. The men undoubtedly perished.

BY STATE TELEGRAPH.

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 21.—No more deaths from small pox have occurred. Three cases of varioloid are reported this evening. All the patients in the hospitals are convalescent and general encouragement is felt.

The congressional library now contains 173,965 volumes of which 8,500 books and 2,500 pamphlets were added during the past year. The law department contains 24,668 volumes, and the receipts last year, under the copyright law of 1867, have been 1,700 books and 3,400 maps, periodicals and engravings, which are supposed to be about three fourths of those to which the Government is entitled to under the law.

The largest Bible class in the world is that conducted by Mrs. Bartlett, at Spurgeon's church, in London, which numbers 700.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT

WASHINGTON, Saturday, Jan 2, 1869.

NEW YEAR'S RECEPTIONS.

Yesterday the New Year was ushered in, and in accordance with a time honored custom most of the Government officials of high rank had public receptions, and the day was spent in making "New Year's calls." The weather was very unfavorable, a heavy rain falling most of the time, and the ground covered with mud and slush. But, notwithstanding the unfavorable state of the weather, the receptions were generally well attended and passed off to the satisfaction of all concerned. All the carriages and hacks in the city were pressed into service, and many went on foot through a drenching rain, or rode in the street cars.

The President's reception commenced at 11 o'clock A. M., at which hour the members of the Cabinet with their wives commenced to arrive, followed by the foreign Ministers, Judges of the Supreme Court, Senators and Representatives, and officers of the army and navy. The President and ladies of the Executive Mansion, Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Stover, appeared in the Blue Parlor a few minutes before 11 o'clock, the President occupying his usual position near the door leading from the Red Parlor, with Marshal Gooding and Deputy Marshal Phillips on his left, by whom the visitors were presented. The ladies occupied their usual position near the centre of the room, with General Michler up in their left, who performed the ceremony of presenting to them. The guests, upon entering the White House, proceeded to the Red Parlor, and from thence to the Blue Parlor, where they were received by the President and ladies of his family. A few moments were passed in this room in conversation, and they then passed through the Green Parlor to the East Room to join in the promenade. The guests were presented in the following order: Secretary Seward and Miss Carpenter of Auburn, New York, Secretary Browning and daughter, Postmaster General Randall and lady, Secretary Welles and lady, Secretary McCulloch and lady, Attorney General Evarts and lady, Secretary Schofield and lady, and Assistant Secretary F. W. Seward. They were followed by the diplomatic corps in full court costume, and side arms, who were presented to the President by Secretary Seward. Then came the Judges of the Supreme Court, of whom six were present, including Chief Justice Chase. Next came the Senators and Representatives, consisting of about a dozen Democrats, and Morton of Indiana, Butler of Mass., and two or three other Republicans. The officers of the army and navy were next in order. At 12 o'clock the gates were thrown open to the citizens, but the crowd was small, and before two o'clock all had taken their departure.

The reception of Speaker Colfax was a splendid ovation, and lasted from twelve to four o'clock. Mr. Colfax was in his most genial humor, and was assisted in receiving by his wife, and mother and sister, Mrs. and Miss Mathews. All parties and classes in society were represented. Among the more prominent were Senators Morton, Fessenden, Price, Edmunds, Thayer, Doolittle, McCreery, Corbett; Admirals Smith and Radford, Commodore Boggs, Captain Patterson, and Commodore Morris, United States Navy; Generals Brice, Dent, Dyer, Ricketts, Heintzelman, and others of the army; Representatives Trimble, Bock, McKee, Eliot, Poland, Spalding, Stevens, Roots, Butler, J. F. Wilson, Niblack, Beaman, and others. The British, French, Austrian, Brazilian, Nicaraguan, Spanish and Prussian Ministers; General Spinner, Hon. John Wilson, Third Auditor; Chief Justice Casey, of the Court of Claims; Hon. John Hitz, Consulate General of Switzerland; Judges Cartter, Fisher, and Wylie, of the District Courts; John Jay Knox; Assistant Surgeon General Crane, United States Army; Paymaster Cunningham, United States Navy, and hundreds of others.

Secretary Schofield's reception was attended by a number of Senators and Representatives, officers of the army and navy, and citizens.

Among those who called upon the Postmaster General were Senators Williams, Corbett, Sherman, Doolittle, McCreery, a number of members of Congress, Judges of the Supreme Court, and other distinguished characters.

Attorney General Evarts, Secretary McCulloch, Secretary Seward, Secretary Welles, Secretary Browning, most of the foreign Ministers, Chief Justice Chase, Mayor Bowen, and several Senators and Representatives received their friends.

Mrs. Senator Williams, Mrs. Senator Morton, Mrs. Senator Ramsey, and Mrs. Associate Justice Davis of the Supreme Court, received their friends at the National Hotel.

THE FINANCIAL CONTROVERSY.

Horace Greeley published a letter over his signature, in the Herald, addressed to Senator Morton, of Indiana, advocating immediate resumption, and attacking the plan of Mr. Morton, as advocated in his speech in the Senate, for gradual resumption, by fixing the 1st of July, 1871, as the time at which the redemption of the legal tender notes shall be commenced. Mr. Morton has published a reply to Mr. Greeley, strongly defending his position, and arguing that immediate resumption is not only impracticable, but would be disastrous to the business of the country. The Tribune contained Mr. Greeley's rejoinder, reaffirming the opinions set forth in his first letter.

DISPOSAL OF PUBLIC LANDS.

Returns received by Commissioner Wilson, of the General Land Office, show that during the month of November the public domain was disposed of as follows in Oregon, California and Washington Territory: Oregon City, Oregon, 8,625 acres; Marysville, California, 7,642 acres; Olympia, W. T., 13,939 acres. The greater portion of this land was sold for cash, and the remainder was taken under the homestead law, and located with agricultural college scrip and military land warrants.

THE CONGRESSIONAL LIBRARY.

According to a report of the Librarian, the Congressional Library now contains an aggregate of 173,965 volumes, exclusive of unbound pamphlets, manuscript materials, and maps. Of this number, 24,668 volumes are in the law department. Under the law requiring a deposit of every publication for which a copy right has been granted, 1,682 books, 1,421 pamphlets, 1,561 pieces of music, and 30 maps have been received during the year. Altogether 8,498 volumes have been added to the Library during the year.

PERSONAL.

J. B. Underwood, Esq., of Eugene City, arrived in Washington last Saturday, by way of San Francisco and Panama. Mr. Underwood has gone to New York to spend a few days with his wife in visiting friends, but expects to return in about a week, and spend the winter here.

Mr. Colt, of Baker county, brother of the gentleman of that name who represented Grant county in the Legislature, is visiting friends at Niagara Falls, N. Y., and passed through Washington yesterday, with a party of ladies, on a flying visit to Richmond, City Point and other places of interest in Virginia. K.

It is estimated that there are now at work in England about three hundred steam plows, and that these plows are securing some remarkable effects in English agriculture. Half a million acres, perhaps more, have been deeply and thoroughly pulverized by this style of plowing. It is said that a steam plow, penetrating to a depth before unknown, and moving with a rapidity of four miles an hour, breaks up and disintegrates the soil four times more than the ordinary horse plow moving at the rate of two miles an hour. By the depth to which the plows penetrate, new elements are brought into the working soil, and surpassing crops are the consequence.

"Gentlemen," said a candidate in the far West, after having given his sentiments on the "Constitution," the "Monroe Doctrine," and such like topics—"gentlemen," and he put his hand on the region of his heart, "these are my sentiments—the sentiments, gentlemen, of a honest man—aye, a honest politician—but, gentlemen and fellow citizens, if they don't suit you they kan be al tered."

BACK AND FRONT.—While some men are trucks to bear the burdens of the earth, or furnace-grates to bear the fires and to be consumed in obscurity, other are driving-wheels, which give life and motion to all with whom they are connected. Kohn & Fishel, the leading Dry Goods merchants of Portland, are the driving-wheels of trade in that city. They conceived and carried out to completion a work nobler than the Pyramids, grander than the gardens of Nineveh or the walls of Babylon; for theirs is not a monument for the dead, neither the production of a luxuriant fancy, but it is a new pathway for purchasers, a link to bind the chain of families and the hearts of men.

MR. SAUNDERS VS. THE ASTERISK COMMISSIONER.—The other morning we said that Mr. Philip Saunders, one of the police of this city, went to Salem at his own expense and arrested and brought back to this city, a man supposed to have been implicated in the attempted assassination of Chas. Lucke, and that the County Commissioners refused to allow his bill of fees and expenses. On Wednesday morning a communication appeared in the [illegible] over the signature of an asterisk, written, no doubt, by the Commissioner, in which several misstatements were made. Mr. asterisk Boyd says: "The [illegible] of $200 reward for the arrest and committal [illegible] of Lucke. In this Mr. Saunders [illegible] thought he had a good thing, so before the [illegible] had been 'worked up' by his associate policemen, [illegible] hope of convicting any person, without a particle of [illegible] to justify holding anyone for trial," etc. [illegible] went after the man. The fact is, Mr. [illegible] had been solicited by many of the leading citizens [illegible] to do something to ferret out and bring [illegible] to justice. The "associate policemen" had [illegible] up" the case that certain men had been [illegible] of them left the city and went to Oregon [illegible] Saunders went after him and brought him [illegible] left the city and started up the valley. [illegible] by the Recorder for his arrest—on [illegible] we are informed, of Mr. Sloan—and [illegible] in the hands of Mr. Saunders. Mr. Saunders [illegible] obedience to the command of the warrant and [illegible] man within seven miles of Salem. [illegible] spotted by the "associate police- [illegible] continuing in this manner, it was about [illegible] to do something without waiting for [illegible] "worked up." Wesubmit, too, [illegible] by judicial warrant to [illegible] the writ, he is entitled to [illegible] the [illegible]. Mr. asterisk [illegible] when some two years [illegible] a Deputy of Marshal Hoyt, [illegible] paid out of the city treasury a [illegible] for faithfully (?) guarding [illegible] of citizens within the city limits, [illegible] speculation to get two hundred [illegible] the Plains. [illegible] his bill for [illegible] notwithstanding he was and did receive $2 [illegible] from the city. Then his bill was [illegible] relation to this, Mr. Saunders [illegible] not then present any bill [illegible] Commissioner for "services," [illegible] and that prior to the presentation [illegible] bill which the Asterisk refused to pay, [illegible] any bill to the County Commissioner [illegible] has always been a faithful officer, [illegible] his efforts to bring offenders to [illegible] upon [illegible]. If the displeasure of the [illegible] will doubtless be always found ready [illegible] their paid or [illegible] his just claims [illegible].

Benn Piatt tells, for the first time in print, a good story about President Jackson and the removal of his wooden bust [illegible] as a figure head for the old ship Constitution. The story was communicated [illegible] by Mr. Dickinson, the first [illegible] of the Navy, who says:

I remember [illegible] when the news reached us that the figure head, carved in the likeness of the President, had been sawed off by some miscreant in the night. He directed me to offer a large reward, and swore he would bring the scoundrel to [illegible].

"I offered the reward, and one night, some months after, a man sent into my room word that he wished to see me. I ordered him in, and a rough fellow made his appearance with a sack thrown over his shoulder. [illegible] word, he slung the sack [illegible] and emptied a huge wooden head on the floor.

"There it is. Now bring out your bears," said the man. It was a grotesque looking thing, sawed off directly under the [illegible].

"'There it is, I say,' he went on, '[illegible] in' agin old Hickory, but that [illegible] business on the old Constitution [illegible] saw it off agin. Now to your damned [illegible].'

"I ordered the fellow out [illegible] and taking my carriage, drove [illegible] White House with the mutilated head in the sack. Having it to a servant, I appeared before the President, and without saying a word, sat the head [illegible] before him on the table. He started [illegible] and then at me, and when I explained, he burst into a fit of uncontrollable laughter.

"'Why that,' he cried at length, 'why that's the most infernal graven image I ever saw. The fellow did perfectly right. You've got him, you say; well, give him a kick and my compliments, and tell him to saw it off again.'"

In London once a grain of silver was beaten out so thin that it covered 98 square inches. If 1,000 of those films of silver had been laid one upon another they would have formed a sheet about as thick as printing paper. If it had been required to form a pile of them one inch high, about 320,000 leaves would have been necessary. Now 320,000 sheets of good thick printing paper would make a stack as high as an ordinary church steeple. Silver is stronger than gold. Besides being widely distributed over the earth, silver pervades many substances from which it can be extracted. The brilliancy which we observe upon the surface of lead is due in part to the presence of this precious metal. A ton of good lead contains from twelve to eighty ounces of silver, and if there is only the smaller of these quantities, there has been discovered a process by which it can be profitably extracted. The water in the ocean also is so impregnated with silver that it pays to extract the precious metal from the copper sheathing of old ships. One experimenter has computed that the ocean holds in solution two million tons silver. There is now in circulation in the whole world an amount of coin equal to $2,500,000,000, upon which there is an annual loss, by mere wear, of $85,000,000; and the greater part of this loss is from the coin most carried and handled—silver. In China and India, which are rich in silver, the people bury it against a rainy day. A recent traveler in China conjectures that [illegible] the present rebellion began the Chinese have buried $500,000,000 worth of coin, most of which is silver, and which may never be recovered, at least for many years. In India silver, and not gold, as with us, is the metal usually employed in the decoration of the person.

BALANCE OF TRADE.—The English papers are complaining that the business of the year 1868 has brought Great Britain heavily in debt to other countries. Thus on October 1st, Great Britain owed the United States $90,000,000 in gold, as ascertained by the difference between the values of the exports and the imports. The excess of imports is attributed to the increase of grain supplied from the Western States, and to the decrease of English goods sent to America. The settlement of the balance of ninety million dollars may be effected in different ways. The interest due to the holders of United States loans in Europe will reduce the amount considerably, and the merchants of the United States will probably pay their debts to France, Germany and Russia by drawing bills of exchange upon England, and remitting them to their continental creditors. In this way will be obviated the necessity of remitting the large amount of money above mentioned. England will endeavor to pay the bills of exchange by selling goods to their holders, and thus the $90,000,000 due the United States will be paid in an indirect manner.

An official report on the railway disasters in Great Britain last year shows that two hundred and [illegible] were killed and seven hundred and ninety-five wounded—total, one thousand and fourteen. Of the persons killed, one hundred and five were servants of the companies, or contractors, and ninety of the wounded. The significant note is added, that the report of accidents to the servants of companies and contractors cannot be looked upon as complete, as many railway companies, not being required to do so by law, do not report to the Board of Trade every accident which may befall this class of persons. The total number of passengers who travelled was 250,593,982 in England alone.

In reporting the arrest of another internal revenue officer, the Government agent now at work in New Orleans adds that he has not yet seen an honest Government official in Louisiana. The statement is probably strong, but it is well calculated to recall a remark of Mr. Lincoln's: "I know I sent some honest men South," said he, "but I don't have any assurance that they are honest now." We know that there were one or two honest men sent to Louisiana.

The King of Siam had had, up to the time of his death, thirty-two wives and seventy six children. It was his ambition, often expressed, to make the number of his offspring an even hundred; and he actually offered a celebrated Dutch physician from Batavia, who was attending the Chow Praya Praklang, or Secretary of Foreign Affairs, a large sum of money if he would arrest his decaying powers and rejuvenate frame.

Prussia and Mecklenburg have disputed since 1600 the suzerainty of the small town of Wolde in Pomerania. Owing to the slowness of the settlement, this little corner has enjoyed, during two hundred and sixty-eight years the completest independence; but the two parties have just come to an agreement as regards the military suzerainty. In future the citizens of the republic of Walde are to serve in the Mecklenburg contingent.

In the new British House of Commons there are twelve Independents, five Baptists, five Quakers, two Wesleyan Methodists, one Calvanistic Methodist, seventeen Unitarians, ten Presbyterians, six Hebrews and twenty six Catholics.

Dancing Academy.—Prof. McCann's Dancing Academy is open every evening in the week, excepting Wednesday, for the reception of pupils. Corner of Front and Alder streets. Class for children half past one Saturday afternoon.

LIKE "QUAKERS' OATS," artificial teeth are of little use and easily detected. Take care of the real ones. All you need is fragrant Sozodont. Use it daily and your teeth will be the last of nature's gifts to fail you.

"SPALDING'S GLUE" mends headless dolls and broken cradles.

Religion is a good thing; benevolence is a good thing; politics are a good thing; war is a good thing; money is a good thing, pestilence and famine are good things, and it is so with a hundred other matters with which we at times imagine we are cursed or blessed. Hard as these afflictions may seem, they all result in good one way or another. It is particularly so with PLANTATION BITTERS, but they must be used with moderation, and according to the directions. You must not abuse or indulge in them too freely; if you do, like other blessings, they will do harm by an over-indulgence or abuse.

G. VENARD.

CHARTRES COFFEE!

Manufactory Established in June, 1857.

STEAM POWER, NOS. 625 AND 627 FRONT ST

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE (GREEN OR) [illegible] qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES (all sorts).

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his preparations, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers, the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

[illegible] SAUNDERS VS THE ASTERISK COMMISSIONER.—The other morning we said that Mr. Philip Saunders, one of the policemen of this city, went to Salem at his own expense and arrested and brought back to this city, a man believed to have been implicated in the attempted assassination of [illegible] that the County Commissioners refused to allow his bill of fees and expenses. [illegible] the following morning a communication appeared in the Herald, over the signature of an Asterisk, written, doubtless, by the Commissioner, in which several misstatements were made. Mr. Asterisk Boyd says: "The Sheriff offered $300 reward for the arrest and commitment of the assassins of [illegible]. In this Mr. Saunders of course thought he had a good thing, so before the thing had been worked [illegible] associate policemen, without a hope of convicting any person, without a particle of evidence to justify holding anyone for trial," etc. Mr. Saunders went after the man. The fact is, Mr. Saunders had been solicited by many of the leading citizens of Portland to do something to ferret out and bring the assassins to justice. The "associate policemen" had [illegible] "up" the case that certain men had been [illegible]. One of them left the city and went to Oregon City. Mr. Saunders went after him and brought him back. Another left the city and started up the valley. A warrant was issued by the Recorder for his arrest—on the affidavit, as we are informed, of Mr. Sloan—and placed in the hands of Mr. Saunders. Mr. Saunders went in obedience to the command of the warrant and arrested the man within [illegible] miles of Salem. We submit that when the men [illegible] by the "associate policemen" were [illegible] in this manner, it was about time for [illegible] to do something without waiting for the matter to be further "worked up." We submit, too, that when an officer is commanded by judicial warrant to make an arrest, and he obeys the writ, he is entitled to [illegible] for making the service. Mr. Asterisk [illegible] says: "I remember, when some two years ago, [illegible] then a Deputy of Marshal Hoyt, [illegible] and paid out of the city treasury a [illegible] of $100 coin, for faithfully [illegible] guarding the lives and property of citizens within the city limits, entered into a similar speculation to get two hundred dollars offered for a murderer, whom it was said had passed through the city towards the Plains. Saunders did not hesitate then, as now, to abandon his post [illegible] in pursuit of the criminal and the $200 reward. The criminal, in the mean time, was arrested and brought to Portland from St. Helens by other parties. [illegible] presented his bill for services, expenses, [illegible], notwithstanding he was and did receive $3 [illegible] per day for services from the city. Then his bill was paid." [illegible] In relation to this, Mr. Saunders [illegible] he did not then present any bill to the County Commissioners for "services," [illegible] or "mileage;" and that prior to the presentation of the bill which the Asterisk refused to pay, he never presented any bill to the County Commissioners. Mr. Saunders has always been a faithful officer, and [illegible] in his efforts to bring offenders to justice, have brought upon himself the displeasure of the "Asterisk," will doubtless be always found ready [illegible] whether paid or denied his just claims [illegible].

YOUNG AMERICA.—"There is a great deal of human nature in man," once said an observing man, to which may be added "and a deal more in boys." We are led to the [illegible] of this sage remark by having received a printed complimentary ticket to the "Pacific Theater—Hicks, and Howe, Proprietors"—lads of ten to twelve years old. They have fitted up a room on Third street, in which they give dramatic entertainments to [illegible] friends, a la Bates, Thayer, Robinson, etc., [illegible] of the plays being, however, bits of [illegible] [illegible] at the circus, sandwiched in with original and [illegible] extempore composition. Among the [illegible] is a sort of general traffic in bottles, and as [illegible] among them, the enterprising proprietors [illegible] of values at which bottles shall pass as [illegible]. Thus, admission to the "Pacific Theater" [illegible] pepper bottle, or one big champagne [illegible] wine and whisky, etc." It is said that the [illegible] are patronized quite extensively by the [illegible] boys and that the income of the proprietors—[illegible] being sold for coin—amounts to no inconsiderable [illegible]. Here is Young America for you. Who knows but the "Pacific" has on its boards embryo [illegible], Forrests and Booths.

[illegible] RELIEF COMMITTEES.—The members of the [illegible] Relief Committee of Portland for the [illegible] year, are as follows: Samaritan Lodge No. [illegible] Marvin, C. A. Dolph and K. R. Chatfield; [illegible] No. 16, W. Spaulding, J. S. Rosenbaum and [illegible]; Orient Lodge No. 17, P. Kelly, S. [illegible] and A. M. Loryea; Minerva Lodge No. 19, Edward Kuhl, C. Wintzingerode and L. B. Stone. On Saturday last the committee held a meeting and organized by [illegible] the following officers: President Chas. H. [illegible]; Secretary, Edward Kuhl; Treasurer, C. Wintzingerode. Applications for relief may be made to any one of the officers or members of the committee. The re-election of Mr. Marvin to the Presidency is for the third term, and is a flattering compliment to his efficiency and devotion.

[illegible]—The play selected for the benefit to-night [illegible] comedy of "Love's Sacrifice or the Rival [illegible]." It will be performed but this once, as the [illegible] will close with to-morrow night. At the matinee [illegible] afternoon, the popular drama, "Fanchon or [illegible]," will be presented, and to-morrow night—[illegible] performance of the season—the great popular [illegible] "Richelieu" will be again produced with the [illegible] cast. If the people of Portland [illegible] their appreciation of the efforts made by [illegible] of the theater, and by Mr. Bates, to build [illegible] and unobjectionable place of amusement [illegible] turn out and fill the hall, not only to-night, [illegible] and to-morrow evening.

[illegible] BROOMS.—Yesterday, while in conversation [illegible] merchant concerning the quotations of [illegible] informed us that, notwithstanding the price [illegible] make is one dollar per dozen higher than the [illegible] make, he sells at least one hundred dozen of [illegible] to one dozen of the latter. The material is [illegible] California; but the difference, as he explained, is attributable to the superior style, finish and [illegible] of the Oregon brooms.

TRADE AT OAK POINT.—The [illegible] relates [illegible] a gentleman just from Oak Point, that "Immense [illegible] are being made to put up vast quantities of [illegible] this season at that place—the season [illegible] unusually auspicious one. The old system of [illegible] in barrels and kits seem going out of use, and [illegible] substituted. Salmon put up in these cans, [illegible] be superior in quality to those cured other[illegible]."

[illegible] "UNION."—We learn that the steamer [illegible] sunk on the Yamhill river between Lafayette and McMinnville, arrived at the basin at Oregon City [illegible]. The accident to her was not so serious [illegible] feared. A small hole was made in her hull [illegible] upon which she ran, but she was beached by [illegible] water had reached the depth of one foot in [illegible] her freight was not, therefore, damaged. [illegible] will be in regular service again in a day or two.

[illegible].—Several hands have been employed [illegible] sifting and re-packing the flour wetted and [illegible] the sinking of the steamer Wenat. It is [illegible] the water had penetrated the flour in the [illegible] sacks, only to the depth of a quarter to [illegible], the rest of the flour being as dry as ever. [illegible] wet flour adheres in crust to the sacks and [illegible] little trouble in separating the good from the [illegible]. The loss does not exceed about five per cent—[illegible] than might have been reasonably anticipated.

[illegible] PAINTER.—One of the views displayed at [illegible] Exhibition, last evening, represented John [illegible] bearing a Cross. The painter of the picture [illegible] well educated as the French artist who [illegible] the picture illustrating the story of Abraham [illegible] into the mount to sacrifice his son. He painted [illegible] bound and tied upon a pile of faggots, and Abraham [illegible] over him and pointing at him a huge pistol.

[illegible] DAY.—A gentleman who spent yesterday [illegible] the mercantile houses of this city, says that [illegible] whole day he did not see a single sale of anything [illegible]. One merchant remarked in our hearing [illegible] had been duller than any week during [illegible] of last year. Business may not be dead, [illegible] gone to sleep.

[illegible] THE GUARDS.—The steamer Senator brought [illegible] day over 2,000 sacks of flour, the Wenat [illegible] 2,200 sacks, and the Alert arrived just at [illegible] to the guards with flour and other produce. [illegible] the way the steamers come, now, every [illegible] it would seem that a famine is not imminent to [illegible].

[illegible].—Messrs. L. C. Fuller and S. M. Lyon have [illegible] a copartnership for the purpose of carrying [illegible] brokerage business. They are both old residents of Portland, and too well known to require recommendation from anybody. They are eminently worthy [illegible].

FOR BENEFIT OF THE POOR.—The concert mentioned in yesterday's paper, to occur next Thursday [illegible], to aid the funds of the Ladies' Benevolent Society [illegible] Relief Society, is to be given by Prof. [illegible] under his direction.

[illegible], PROBABLY.—At a late hour last night it was the intention of Messrs. Simpson and McPherson to start [illegible] upon their overland trip, though there was [illegible] of their being delayed another day. [illegible] probably now on their way.

[illegible] FOR CHARITY.—A gentleman stated to us last [illegible] that during the day he had met with appeals for [illegible] different cases, in all of which the parties [illegible] as needy and deserving. We did not [illegible] particulars.

[illegible] EXHIBITION.—The exhibition of Dissolving [illegible] M. E. Church, last evening, was a great success. The audience was a large one and everybody was [illegible]. The show will be repeated again this evening [illegible] entire change of programme.

[illegible].—The brig North Star will leave this port to-[illegible] for San Francisco. The steamer Okanagon will tow [illegible]. Her cargo consists of five hundred and [illegible] tons flour and seventy five tons oats.

[illegible] at Oro Fino Theater a gold glove button or [illegible]. The owner can recover it by application at the [illegible].

[illegible].—The members of the Washington Guard are requested to meet this evening at their Armory for drill.

[illegible] at the Union Fish Market this morning—[illegible] the fishery.

[illegible] hical error made a New York [illegible] Senator Roscoe Conkling, Rascal [illegible].

[illegible] good story about the [illegible] the removal of his wooden [illegible] figure head for [illegible]. The story was [illegible], the first [illegible] whisky.

I remember [illegible] when the [illegible] carved [illegible] sawed [illegible] directed [illegible] would bring [illegible].

"I offered the reward and one night some ten [illegible] that he wished [illegible] a rough [illegible] thrown [illegible] word, he [illegible] huge [illegible].

"[illegible] said the man [illegible] sawed [illegible].

"There [illegible] in [illegible] business [illegible] ago. [illegible]

"I [illegible] my carriage [illegible] mutilated head in the [illegible] out, I appeared [illegible] saying a word [illegible] him on the table, [illegible] me, and when [illegible] uncontrollable [illegible].

"Why that," [illegible] the most [illegible] fellow did [illegible] say: well, give him a [illegible] and tell [illegible]."

In London [illegible] so thin that [illegible] of those [illegible] another they would [illegible] as thick as printing paper. It would been required to form a pile of them one inch high, about 320,000 leaves would have been necessary. Now 320,000 sheets of good thick printing paper would make a stack as high as an ordinary church steeple. Silver is stronger than gold. Besides being widely distributed over the earth, silver pervades many substances [illegible] can be extracted. The [illegible] the surface of [illegible] of this precious metal [illegible] tains from twelve to eighty [illegible] if there is only the smallest of these quantities there has been discovered a process by which it can be profitably extracted. The water in the ocean also is [illegible] with silver that it pays to extract the [illegible] sheathing of old ships. One experimenter has computed that the [illegible] million tons silver. There is now in circulation in the whole world [illegible] $2,500,000,000, upon which there is an annual loss, by mere wear, of [illegible] part of this loss is from the coin most carried and handled—silver. In China and India, which are rich in silver, the people bury [illegible] against a rainy day. A recent traveler [illegible] since the present [illegible] buried $500,000,000 worth [illegible] is silver, and which may never be recovered, at least for many years [illegible] gold, as with us, [illegible] in the decoration [illegible].

BALANCE OF TRADE.—[illegible] are complaining that the business of [illegible] year [illegible] has brought Great Britain heavily in debt to other countries. Thus [illegible] October [illegible] Great Britain owed the United States $90,000,000 in gold, as ascertained by the difference between the values of the exports and the imports. The excess of imports is attributed to the increased grain supplies from the Western States, and to the decrease of English goods sent to America. The settlement of the balance of ninety million dollars may be effected in different ways. The interest due to the holders of United States [illegible] reduce the amount considerably, and the merchants of the United States will probably pay their debts to France, Germany and Russia by drawing bills of exchange on England, or remitting them to their continental creditors. In this way will be obviated the necessity of remitting the large amount of money above mentioned. England will endeavor to pay the bills of exchange by selling goods to their holders, and thus the $90,000,000 due the United States will be paid in an indirect manner.

An official report on the railway disasters in Great Britain last year shows that two hundred and nineteen persons were killed and seven hundred and ninety five wounded—total, one thousand and fourteen. Of the persons killed, one hundred and five were servants of the companies, or contractors, and ninety of the wounded. The significant note is added, that the report of accidents to the servants of companies and contractors cannot be looked upon as complete, as many railway companies, not being required to do so by law, do not report to the Board of Trade every accident which may befall this class of persons. The total number of passengers who travelled was 250,000,000 in England alone.

In reporting the arrest of another internal revenue officer, the Government agent now at work in New Orleans adds that he has not yet seen an honest Government official in Louisiana. The statement is probably strong, but it is well calculated to recall a remark of Mr. Lincoln's: "I know I sent some honest men South," said he, "but I don't have any assurance that they are honest now." [illegible] that there were only two honest men sent to Louisiana.

The King of Siam had had, up to the time of his death, thirty-two wives and seventy [illegible] children. It was his ambition, often expressed, to make the number of his offspring an even hundred; and he actually offered a considerable [illegible] physician from [illegible] who was attending the Chow Phaya Praklang, or minister of Foreign Affairs, a large sum of money if he could arrest his decaying powers and rejuvenate frame.

Prussia and Mecklenburg [illegible] since 1600 the suzerainty of the small town of Walds in Pomerania. Owing to the slowness of the settlement, this little corner has enjoyed, during two hundred and sixty-eight years the completest independence; but the two parties have just come to an agreement as regards the [illegible] suzerainty. In future the citizens of the [illegible] of Walds are to serve in the Mecklenburg contingent.

In the new British House of Commons there are twelve Independents, [illegible] Quakers, two Wesleyan Methodists, one Calvanistic Methodist, seventeen Unitarians, [illegible] Presbyterians, six Hebrews and [illegible] Catholics.

NIGHT SCHOOL.—Mrs. Fitzgerald [illegible] School in the schoolhouse [illegible] the Catholic Church. For Terms see the Teacher.

Dancing Academy.—Prof. McCann's Dancing Academy is open every evening in the week, excepting Wednesday, for the reception of pupils. Corner of Front and Alder streets. [illegible] half past one Saturday [illegible].

LIKE "QUAKERS" [illegible] of little use and easily detected. [illegible] All you need is fragrant [illegible] teeth will be the last of nature [illegible].

"SOZODONT" [illegible] cradles.

Religion is a good thing [illegible] politics are a good thing [illegible] a good thing, [illegible] It is so with a hundred other [illegible] thus imagine we are [illegible] afflictions may [illegible] another. It [illegible] but they must be used [illegible] the directions. [illegible] too freely. If you [illegible] harm by an over-indulgence [illegible].
